

Leave a Scouting Legacy ... Make a Bequest to Scouting

A Solid Future for Scouting is Built on a Strong Foundation

Minsi Trails Council is growing its endowment trust fund today to ensure a strong foundation for future generations of Scouts. Our Endowment Fund is set aside for long-term use by local Scouting, but it also generates annual income directly supporting Scouting programs in our area.

Make a Bequest to Minsi Trails Council

A proven way to grow an endowment is through will bequests made by individuals who understand the importance of Scouting to our families, schools, communities, and country. Making a bequest, and making a difference for our Scouts, starts with having a valid and current will.

A charitable bequest through a will is the most often used planned gift to benefit Scouting and other charitable organizations. In fact, for many organizations like Minsi Trails Council, charitable bequests account for nearly 85% of total gifts to their endowment funds. This is how many donors choose to establish their Scouting legacies ... through a future gift to help keep Scouting strong.

Bequests can be made in a variety of ways including as a specific dollar amount in a will or a percentage of the remainder of an estate. This means that you can make a future gift to Scouting without using funds today that might be needed for other living expenses. In addition, Minsi Trails Council could be included as a beneficiary in a life insurance policy.

Help Make a Positive Difference Today

If you are like many individuals, Scouting's been important to you throughout your life. As you remember your great experiences in Scouting as a youth or parent ... please think about your legacy to Scouting by including the Minsi Trails Council Endowment Fund in your will, insurance, or estate plan.
